"Build Something," Hearst
Bell's Long Distance Call
Riding Too Hard
England's "No"

By Arthur Brisbane
Correspondent, 1923, by Hearst W. R. Hearst, talking to one of the oldest living editors and urging him to take a vacation, said:
"While you are away, build something,
it's only a chicken coop or a cow barn. Merely doing nothing isn't a vacation. Building takes your mind from ordinary work, rests the tired part of the brain. I am building houses on my California ranch. I may not live in them long, but anyhow
I build them."

That's good advice, BUILD SOMETHING. Beaver, ant, bird, man, all need to build.

A real builder did yesterday,
when Alexander Graham Bell answered the long distance call.
Bell built an idea into a magnificent reality, the telephone,
that carries the voice of children to their mothers, and of men to each other, all over the world.
To bring human beings closer together, in action and in friendship, is noble work. Alexander Graham Bell did that work. His place is safe in history on this earth, and safe, you may be sure, wherever he has gone.

They may get a fall, and remember it.

England, says to her allies:
"You must pay what you owe me, because the United States has forgotten my debts." There is this difference between the debt between the French and Italian debt to England, and the English debt to the United States.

France and Italy between them ruined England from destruction.
France saved the life of the British Empire by her sacrifice and her men, her terrific fighting courage.

England did not save the life of the United States, quite a long distance from it. England owes the United States five thousand million dollars borrowed in war.
If she doesn't want to pay, there will be no war, and only a memorandum for future use.

The debt of France to this country is different. That nation did help us when we were fighting England. To forgive that debt would be welcome to many Americans.

Home money is left in the country. Mr. Mellon, secretary of the Treasury, needed three hundred million dollars for his Uncle Sam and needed 40 per cent interest. They offered him twelve hundred million dollars, four times as much as he wanted.

"Melon and tomato crops damaged by storm," farmers get that on their radio. Note that they haven't any. They will be offered good prices for tomatoes and melons. Remarkable is the courage of farmers, pathetic their penitence.

At Shimer, of Hempstead, on the coast, sold his potatoes for $1.25 a barrel, less than they cost to produce. While the potatoes were being cleared the potato vines. Now the big field is covered with dry, drooping plants that soon will be huge cabbage. It's likely that the potatoes will not grow and haul them. Still he keeps on.

More slashing of automobile prices. Studabaker, Nash and Chandler cut. The main thing is TO BUY YOUR CAR, the best you can afford, remembering that the best is not always the dearest.

Open Safety Pin Removed From Child's Stomach

Baltimore, Aug. 3.—Doris Day, three months old daughter of Mrs. Edna Day, today is on the road to recovery after an open safety pin was removed from her stomach.

Mrs. Day was dressing the child who lay in her bed when she was found lying on the dressing table, Mrs. Day put an open safety pin between her lips and then with another made fast part of the baby's dress. Suddenly the pin fell from Mrs. Day's lips, directly into the open mouth of the baby, a choking and the pin had been swallowed.

Religious differences and another woman led Mrs. Lillian Fleming Lowenberg to twice attempt suicide. She is recovering from venereal poisoning at the Relief Hospital.

Her elderly husband was a Jew. A few months after their marriage trouble cropped up over their respective religions. He left her. She returned to work as a trained nurse. Then she met him downtown with a woman of questionable appearance.

In the presence of the strange woman he insisted her declaring: "I am through with you." As the broken-hearted bride herself told the story:

"I became so dissatisfied that I decided to end it all. Despite the difference in our faith, despite our quarrel, his insult and the other woman, I loved him. It broke my heart to see him in bad company. I thought, 'I ought to do something. I had a hotel room. I took twenty cents of the money. Then I lost my nerve.'"

Mrs. Lowenberg called the superintendent of nurses at the Rebohy Hospital, where she had been employed, and told her of taking the pin. She was treated as a stuper. Given first aid treatment in a room. She was discharged from the City Hospital last Friday night.

PICKET IS WOUNDED AT NEW HAVEN

Assailant Also Shot and Mob Tries to Take Him From Officers

Chicago, Aug. 3.—While all parties in the railroad strike marked time today pending the Cabinet meeting at Washington tomorrow, there was a marked increase in violence resulting from the walkout.

David Boland, a negro, is in the hospital at New Haven, Ct., today suffering from a bullet wound in the hip and held under surveillance, on a charge of shooting John S. Daley, a New Haven road shop strike picket. Another man is seriously injured. Boland, following the shooting of Daley, took refuge in a cellar and was shot by Constable August Schoeder, when he opened fire on the officer. He surrendered after being shot.

Outside a gathering of colporters tried to take Boland from the officer, but were finally induced to let the law take its course.

According to Daley and two other strike pickets who were doing duty near the railroad yards, Boland shot him without warning after they had retired where he was working, in the belief that he might be a railroad strike-breaker.

CONCEDE REED WINNER BY 6,000 VOTES

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3 (By the Associated Press).—With a lead of nearly 6,000 votes on the face of official returns from all but 442 of the 1,343 precincts in the State, supporters of United States Senator James A. Reed today declared he had defeated Breckinridge Long for the Democratic senatorial nomination, while Long expressed confidence that the unheard from would bring him success.

The belief of Reed supporters that he had won the contest apparently was strengthened today when the St. Louis Globe Democrat, an independent newspaper, appeared with a two-column picture of the Senator on the first page under the caption, "Win nomination."

The Globe Democrat asserted Reed apparently had been victorious by 4,000 to 6,000 votes. Reed's victory is of nationwide significance. For the issue in his campaign, Woodrow Wilson and his policies, including the discarded League of Nations, against Reed and his defiant and partisan opposition in all that Wisconsin and the League of Nations meant.

Reed's triumph in Wilson's re-election, Wilson and his supporters threw into the Missouri contest every argument they could conceive of in the effort to lure the Missouri voters away from Reed's standard.

Personal letters written by Wilson were sent to trusted Missouri and published in the newspapers urging the voters to turn against Reed because he was hostile to "my policies." Breckinridge Long was supported as the Wilson standard and all the force of the Wilson influence was behind him.

Presidential Candidate

Washington, Aug. 3.—Representative of Woodrow Wilson as leader of the Democratic party by Missouri Democrats in their re-nomination of Senator "Jim" Reed, the Gory anti-Wilson leader, was looked upon in Missouri political circles today as doing an attempt to make Reed the Democratic nominee for President in 1924.

Driven from the Democratic convention at San Francisco two years ago as "man without a party," Reed has returned to party power on a resounding wave of personal popularity which also swept the League of Nations movement and all Wilsonian policies to tragic defeat.

With Missouri Republican and Democratic Senators today admitted Reed's chances for reelection in the Senate in November were "very bright." His chances in either his next term in the Senate, it was contended, was won last Tuesday, slim as his more ardent admirers on both sides of the chamber, he even predicted his election by an overwhelming majority.

Morgan Leads Stubbs
in Kansas Contest

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 2.—W. O. Morgan, Hutchinson editor, today led former Governor W. R. Stubbs, of Lawrence, for the Republican nomination for Governor in about 13,000 votes on the face of official returns approximately 75 per cent complete. The count showed Morgan 46,275; Stubbs, 25,568.

The defeat of Phil Campbell, chairman of the rules committee in the House of Representatives, for re-nomination on the Republican ticket for representative from the third Kansas district, was said today by one familiar with the political situation to have been due to the vote of the labor element. It had been known here for some time that labor leaders were lining up their votes for W. H. Clegg of Sedan, who won the nomination.

STRIKERS WIN VICTORY AT NEWMARKET

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 3.—The strike at the mills of the Newmarket Manufacturing Company at Newmarket has been settled. The company voted to return to work Monday to accept the offer of the company of a fifty-hour week with no reduction in pay. This is the first victory over the fifty-four-hour week in New Hampshire.

The strike has been in effect since February 15, when, in common with textile workers in six other cities and towns in the State, the 5,000 or more workers walked out of the mills rather than accept a 10 per cent. pay reduction and a fifty-four-hour week.

The vote to return to work was not unanimous. About 40 per cent. of the strikers voted not to resume employment unless a forty-eight-hour week was secured.

At a meeting held in Central Labor Union Hall, it was voted to ask the authorities for a permit to hold a big street parade and demonstration of all labor organizations Monday night.

Local strike officials are saying that they have been altogether too compliant in their attitude toward the board of aidmen. They recall that the board passed a resolution last March to threaten that it would be glad to meet with the parties to the strike at any time for the purpose of reaching an adjustment, and has done nothing since that time to make the Amoskeag Company realize that the city is suffering from unemployment.

The board knows, the strikers say, that the operatives have been willing and anxious to have the co-operation of the board in a conference with the company officials to consider plans for arbitration. If the board does not know this, they say, any of the members would have been found out by inquiring at strike headquarters. Instead of the board doing nothing, the board has followed, it would be much better if it would adopt the better use of trying and trying again and again, until success, great or small, is secured.

Weds on Vacation

MRS. ARTHUR HUNTER.
Former Helen R. Smith of Lynn, who last month's courtship.

FOLLOWS GIRL ON VACATION TO PROPOSE

How Arthur M. Hunter, superintendent of a Lynn garage, wound up his five month's courtship of Miss Helen R. Smith, a prominent Lynn church worker, in a whirlwind fashion, came to light today when the young people announced their recent marriage at St. John, N. B., July 27.

The announcement came as a surprise even to the families of the young couple, who returned, as everyone thought from a fortnight's vacation. Miss Smith has gone to visit up aunt at St. John, Hunter followed. He proposed to her July 25 and they were married the next day.

DOPE PEDDLAR TAKEN; THINKS ARREST JOKE

John L. Gaynor doesn't believe in signs or badges. To him even the gold badge of a United States officer is a joke.

So when a man known to him as "Greasepot," a dope pedlar, introduced a young man named McLean, Gaynor readily consented to sell McLean $40 worth of morphine on Warren Avenue.

When "Greasepot" and McLean displayed gold badges of Federal narcotic officers, Gaynor laughed. "Quit yer kidding," said he, making a grab for a package of morphine he had sold McLean for mark.

But nothing could convince Gaynor it was not a huge joke. Even when told that he faced ten years at Atlanta, because the dope he had sold was of German make, he laughed, and told the officers to quit fooling.

The officers seized five ounces of German morphine. Gaynor admitted selling part of it to McLean. He said he had been out of work, and another lodger in the house asked him to deliver the dope. He didn't think it was any crime, he said.

The officers in searching the place found Harry Moore, whom Gaynor identified as the man who had asked him to deliver the morphine. Both men were locked up. Gaynor still is quarantined with the officers to stop jolting with him.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF IN ROW OVER MOTHER
Thomaston, Ct., Aug. 2.—Alphonse Laetoria, thirty-three years old, a fire engine proprietor, shot and killed his wife, Louise, thirty-six, today and then committed suicide, according to the police.

Neighbors said the Laetorias quarreled a few weeks ago because Mrs. Laetoria refused to live with her husband's mother, who recently came from Italy.

FIFTY YEARS FRIENDS, AGED MEN FIGHT; LAND IN COURT

Newark, N. J., Aug. 3.—After fifty years of unclouded friendship, Frank Pannico, eighty-two, and Francesco De Niello, seventy-six, have quarreled.

Pannico was sweeping in front of his house, and was so persistent that he held up a trolley car. His friend De Niello remonstrated with him. The argument became intense, and Pannico, it was alleged, struck De Niello on the head with the broom.

CONTRACTOR DIES IN HOME IN EAST BOSTON
After a two weeks' illness, during which time he underwent an operation at the Phillips House Hospital, Antonio DeBianco, sixty-nine years old, for more than twenty years a prominent Boston contractor, died at his home at No. 2 Everett street, East Boston.

Several of them received broken bones.

The company was answering a call from a box at No. 181 Western Avenue and were traveling along Western Avenue at a rapid clip when a small boy suddenly darted out from the sidewalk.

Driver Fred Willett, in order to avoid running a boy down, turned his truck and ran it up against the opposite sidewalk, crushing into a telegraph pole. All of the front end were thrown twenty feet from the truck and the vehicle was almost demolished.

ANTI-KLAN CANDIDATE WINS IN OKLAHOMA
Oklahoma City, Aug. 2.—The Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma politics received a decided setback in Tuesday's primaries, when Mayor J. C. Alton of Oklahoma City was apparently given the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by up wards of 10,000 votes, over Robert J. Wilson, who was endorsed by the Klan. Thomas H. Owen ran a poor third.

Returns from 1,884 precincts out of 2,537 given Walton a lead of 10,000 over Wilson.

5 FIREMEN HURT IN BRIGHTON COLLISION

A lieutenant and four members of Engine Company No. 41 were thrown from their truck when the machine crashed into a telegraph pole in Brighton. The driver of the truck swore his machine in order to avoid striking a child.

The injured are Lieutenant Farnold, Hoseman Willett, Turley, Neville and Flynn. They were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Lieutenant Farnold's ribs were broken and he is also suffering from internal injuries. All of the hosemen were badly shaken up and bruised.

BEAUTIFUL CORALIE COUDERT DIVORCED FOR THIRD TIME

DEGREE IS GRANTED IN PARIS

Former Wife of "Willie" Brokaw Is Separated From Harold Perry Erskine

New York, Aug. 3.—The beautiful and stately Coralie Coudert, once Mrs. William Gould Brokaw, now Mrs. William G. Roeder, next Mrs. Harold Perry Erskine—

Caselle Coudert, who thrived and prospered Newport not so many years ago, again is a widow—divorce, so her friends in New York have learned. This time her action was brought in Paris, where she has lived for the last few years.

When the lovely Coralie, daughter of Lemme Coudert and niece of Frederick H. Coudert, became the wife of "Willie" Brokaw, well known yachtsman, society milled and prospered through his fortune. But after her marriage to Brokaw in 1912 her divorce seven years later was approved by the court.

MARRIES HER ATTORNEY. And it was Roeder, an attorney of Providence, who procured the divorce, and became so infatuated with his fair client that he followed her all over Europe, declaring his love, and at last was married to her in 1918 in New York.

So long as this marriage lasted the court suits of New York and Newport were dropped. But the divorce proceedings of the "Willie" Brokaw case, which were given at Vanderbilt's Sandy Point Farm in 1919, was one of the first and one of the most skillful "four-in-hand" drivers.

Here, too, was the pleasure of being the best dressed of the ultra-modern women of her set, and her gown never surrendered their elegant position as long as the divorce suits remained about Newport or Fifth avenue.

SPORTSMAN-ARCHITECT. William Roeder died in 1911 and in 1912 his widow became the wife of Harold Perry Erskine at her home, No. 925 Park avenue.

Mrs. Erskine is a son of the late Charles D. Erskine of Boston. His wife was evaluated from Williams College in 1902 and spent four years in Greece, Rome and Paris studying architecture. He was a member of the firm of Henshaw, Brokaw & Henshaw at that time and belonged to the Boston Art Society and the St. Anthony Society.

In the winter of 1919 he began a shipping expedition into equatorial Africa and on his return presented trophies to the American Museum of Natural History.

Mrs. Erskine at his home, No. 211 East Sixty-first street, declines to discuss the matter of divorce, saying she prefers that all correspondence remain from Mrs. Erskine. Asked if Mrs. Erskine had returned from Paris, he answered that he did not know.

200 Balkan Picture Brides Reach U.S. 15 "Unclaimed"

It brought nearly 200 Greek and Armenian "picture brides" many of whom were scheduled to meet their prospective husbands for the first time. The couples had made all the arrangements for their life happiness by mail.

About a hundred of the grooms went down the bay in motorboats to greet their prospective brides.

About fifteen of the young women were "unclaimed."

GREAT AIR FLEET TO GUARD ENGLAND

By International News Service. London, Aug. 3.—Great Britain has decided to provide a home defense air force of 800 airplanes.

Premier Lloyd George announced in the House of Commons today. It has been decided further to spend an additional $10,000,000 annually to protect England from the air.

A large section of the British press has been clamoring for weeks for government action to strengthen the air defenses.

The Daily Express from time to time has been printing editorials on the first page, stating that Great Britain is practically defenseless in the air. It was pointed out by the newspapers and by officials of the army and navy that France is the only nation in a position to attack England by air, and all were very careful to say that no danger is felt from that quarter. It is this circumstance which adds mystery to the public demand for strengthening the air.

General Sir Frederick Maurice, director of military operations at the War Office during the war, declared in an interview that he believed that it was easier to defend the navy rather than the air force, but this view is not generally held.

DRUNKEN GIRL TO OBSERVE CURFEW LAW

Special Justice Whiting ordered the girl placed on probation with the understanding that she keep off the streets after ten o'clock each night.

Miss Valuk declined to accept the terms of the probation.

Mr. Hall was fifty-four years old and had lived in Malden practically all his life. He was a foreman at the factory of the Jordan Shaw Company in Maplewood. He leaves a wife, Eliza.

Wife Says Husband Who Broke Her Nose Was Justified

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Sadie Patten, thirty-six, of No. 3 Mill road, is in the City Hospital suffering from a broken nose and lacerations of the head as the result of a beating given her by her husband, James Patten, a member of the Jersey City fire department.

She refused to enter a complaint against her husband, declaring that he was justified in beating her when he met her returning home early in the morning in company with a strange man.

Her newly acquired landing field in East Boston.

"Pioneer lines and private commercial lines will be a reality in the near future and Boston should take advantage of the opportunity to establish this field in first class ships."

CHARGE PLOT TO BOSTON WOMAN FOIL ENTRY OF MAYFLOWER

That the Mayflower has been allowed to enter the coming Fall races of Yankee fishermen seeking to represent America in the Canadian cup contest, merely as a blind to induce American spectators to loosen their purse strings and that the vessel will not be allowed to compete in the finals, is the charge entertained by the Mayflower Association.

The Mayflower has been allowed entrance in the elimination contest. But fear exists that if even though she should win the preliminary she will be withdrawn from the finals.

The Association are insisting on some guarantee that this will not happen.

MARILYNN MAY JOIN JACK IN MOVIES

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—Married into it only four days, Marilyn Miller is so much a member of the Pickford family that the likely prospect is that she, too, will soon begin to reign as a cinema queen, instead of as a Broadway star.

In a statement issued today at the Pathé-Lasker studios, the statement was made that last Sunday's bride "will in all likelihood" enter with her husband, Jack Pickford, in his next production.

It is understood here that Mrs. Miller's contract with Ziegfeld company is in force until September.

Jack Pickford denied reports from the East which intimated his marriage to Marilyn Miller was a "trivial publicity stunt."

"Ours is a marriage for love and

BOY ARTIST'S WORK

One of the many drawings already received in the Graphic Arts competition, in which $250 in prizes are offered to boys and girls. This drawing is submitted by Joseph Lavitt, thirteen years old, of No. 13 Ellerton street, Oak Island, Maine.

"I've drawn," he declared, "I loved Marilyn from the moment I first saw her—and I think she cared for me. We are sweethearts and we intend to be the biggest thing in the world is love, and we have found it." Lavitt, sitting in an easy chair, proudly exclaimed:

"That's right."

JAPANESE PRIMA

DONNA SAILS FOR U.S.

Yokohama, Aug. 3.—Dr. Mura, prominent Japanese physician and husband of Japan's opera prima donna, cannot understand the soul of an artist, he writes. The doctor tried unsuccessfully to prevent his wife, Mrs. Tamako Mura, from obtaining a passport to sail for America. He said she was too friendly with her Italian accompanist, and arranged to have them to be introduced a friend "keep safe" from the singer and her accompanist on the trip across the Pacific.

BOMBS DAMAGE 2 CHICAGO BUILDINGS

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Two buildings upon which it is alleged non-union workers had been employed were damaged by bombs here early today. An apartment building in West Sixty-sixth street was bombed and ten persons were thrown from their beds. Two persons were slightly injured. The stairway of a recently completed building in Throel Boulevard was damaged by the other bomb.

BOY AND GIRL ARTISTS WORK FOR PRIZES

"If I get one hundred dollars I'm going to take drawing lessons," writes a Providence, R. I., boy who has sent in a very good drawing to the drawing contest being conducted through the Boston American by the Boston Club of Printing House Craftsmen.

"I want to win a prize," a Cambridge girl writes, sending a drawing, "because I need money for drawing materials."

CHANCE FOR ALL

Every boy and girl in New England would like a prize, and every boy and girl in New England has a chance to win one in this contest. Think of all the chances of winning something—$100, $50, three $25, five $10, ten $5. Ten money prizes and ten book prizes, by way of making of the two free tickets to the Second Educational Graphic Arts Exposition, Mechanics Building, August 25 to September 2, which are being sent to everyone who sends a drawing.

Don't let the fact that you can't draw well stop you from entering this contest. Your idea of what the graphic arts—drawing and photography—regard—mean to civilization may be better than that of someone who draws better than you do.

If such is the case you will stand a good chance of winning, for the judges will look first for clever and original ideas.

DON'T FOLD DRAWINGS

Some of the drawings received have been folded in an envelope. Don't do this. Wrap them flat between heavy pieces of paper or cardboard. Otherwise drawings may be damaged in the mail. A damaged drawing couldn't be hung in honor of the contest, where the winners are to be exhibited, nor can it be reproduced for the cover or inside pages of "The Printing Craftsmen," the trade journal that is going to reproduce the first four winners in the September issue.

GEORGIA ASKS EXTRADITION OF MAN HELD HERE

The State of Georgia, the Governor of which recently refused to hear a Massachusetts application for extradition, has asked for the extradition of a prisoner.

Assistant Attorney General Lewis Goldberg will hear the Georgia petition tomorrow. There is considerable interest in Governor Cox's action in view of Georgia's recent attitude.

W. E. Mix, wanted in Atlanta for theft of an auto and now in Charles Street Jail, is the man for whom extradition is sought. Dr. Eugene Schroeder, wanted here for abandoning his family and arrested in Atlanta, was the man for whom the Georgia Governor refused extradition.

Turns at Last

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Mrs. Gladys Kirkland is a frail woman. Her husband, Percy L. Kirkland, was a husky athlete. He frequently beat her. She devoted her life to making an unimpeachable attitude and remembered the lesson from Chicago "Smith & Wesson make all men equal."

When she appeared today at the famous house where she lives, she ran into the bedroom and came back with a gun. Four times she pulled the trigger, and every shot found its mark. The husband died within an hour.

BULLETS FLY AS BARBER GUARDS PINT

North Attleboro, Aug. 3.—One man, fighting to protect a pint of moonshine, kept practically all of the village of Attleboro Falls at bay with a gun for two hours.

The police heard that Thomas Squarato, a barber, had liquor in his house. Members of the State constabulary and police went to raid the place. When the police battered down the door they found them selves in a narrow hall with Squarato barricaded behind an inner door. He had a revolver in his hand and said:

"You can't get my booze. I'll kill any man that tries to get in here."

One of the officers started to go for extra police. A shot from Squarato's gun barely missed him. Another man ran into the yard to make an attack from the rear. The barber appeared at the window and sent him running with another shot.

By this time a huge crowd had gathered, despite the occasional pop of Squarato's gun.

It was two hours before his ammunition gave out. Then they got him. Three other men in the house were taken.

$70 TO $300 CUT ON STUDEBAKER CARS

A reduction ranging from $70 to $300 on open and closed models of the Studebaker cars has been announced by Studebaker Company Joseph S. Donovan, New England distributor, has been notified that the new scale became effective on Aug. 1.

New York, Aug. 3.—Among the scores of world celebrities who sailed on the giant Cunarder Aquitania on her voyage to England, was General Menocal, former president of Cuba. General Menocal is going abroad for a well earned vacation. He had as a fellow passenger, Max von Loew, theatrical manager, who operates theatres in New York and a hundred other American cities.

MacMILLAN PARTY SAFE FOR WINTER

Portland, Me., Aug. 3.—Word has been received by radio that the Arctic expedition headed by Donald B. MacMillan has wintered safely on Barin Land. The MacMillan party sailed for the Arctic on the Albatross in July, 1921. Its equipment taken along has been effective and it is only the second message received from the explorer and his party since they sailed a year ago.

MR. ABESTOS PUT ON POLICE CALLING LIST

Watertown, Ct., Aug. 3.—Anna A. Marino, known as "Mother Annie," and the former queen of the "series," reported to the police today that her home here was used as a hideout and $1,000 in cash, $4,000 worth of gold coins and jewelry and a bank book in a Charlestown, Wash., bank, with deposits of $17,000 stolen.

Police have arrested John Abestos and Stephen Kaziloff of this city and Michael Barsany of New Britain, who are held on suspicion of having knowledge of the robbery.

The woman was visiting at the time of Abestos when the robbery occurred.

Father Asks $100,000 From Doctor for Death of Girl

New York, Aug. 3.—Dr. Julius Auerbach, surgeon, has been made defendant in a suit for $100,000, charging him with direct responsibility of the death of Anabel Fine, fifteen.

The action has been brought by the girl's father, Joseph Fine, wealthy merchant, who sets forth numerous instances of neglect, charging Dr. Auerbach with refusing to call to see the child when infection and complications followed an operation to remove the child's tonsils. When urged to visit his patient the physician, said he was "really too busy," the father adds.

The big happy party went down from Nantasket on the 1215 boat from Howe's Wharf. At the Villa Napoli they found a fine dinner awaiting them, with a band and an orchestra on hand to provide music for the dancing which followed.

Special attention was lavished on the children of the party, ice cream, candy, sodas and other good things following one another in a continuous round of joy.

There was a long list of sporting friends, but none which rivaled for interest the baseball game between the Stags and the Harvard men.

A silver cup was offered by Ernest J. Goulden, advertising manager, for the man winning the greatest number of points in the race events three years in succession.

HOWARD TELLS HOW TO SWAT MOSQUITO

Swat the mosquito with legislation! This is the advice of Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the board of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture, who today addressed a meeting of the newly organized Anti-Mosquito Association of Massachusetts.

Here are Dr. Howard's suggestions in mosquito swatting:

Find out the species of pest that is troubling you and then fight him with the methods prescribed for that particular brand.

Pace laws making property owners responsible for breeding places. Apoint inspectors to work in conjunction with the State and local health authorities whose sole work would be toward the elimination of the troublesome bug.

Greater Boston's brand of mosquitoes are not as dangerous to health as are the malarial-carrying insects of the South, Dr. Howard says. They are, nevertheless, a nuisance, he avers, and should be eradicated.

Killing a community of the Massachusetts brand—the domestic and salt marsh variety—is an easy matter, claims Dr. Howard. Every man is responsible for his own mosquito.

The Boston brand, he says, breeds mostly in neglected rain-barrels.

In small stagnant pools and refilled tin cans on dumps. "Get your inspectors to dig out these breeding places and educate your citizens to pour kerosene wherever the pest propagates and you will soon be mosquito free," Dr. Howard declares.

NOT quite seven years ago the U. S. Royal Cord Tire was announced to the public. People who saw it remarked on the beauty of the tread design, which is protected by U. S. Letters Patent.

The same design that since then has proved itself the most scientific tread pattern ever put on a pneumatic tire.

To identify this superlative tire under all conditions—whether running or stationary—Royal Cord makers adopted as a trade mark a circumferential white stripe placed on each side wall.

Today, Royal Cord beauty and identity is so known and distinguished that even a newborn can spot one whirling around the corner.

And car-owners everywhere look upon a Royal Cord as the measure of all automobile tire values.

This is contrary to the facts. Otherwise Royal Cords wouldn't keep gaining and gaining in sales to quality people.

And—you wouldn't see Royal Cords on so many cars of every make in the country.

Nor—if Americans were on record for cheaply made and cheaply priced tires—would they award the leadership of the tire business to the Royal Cord Tire.

According to some tire dealers and manufacturers the public has been having one of its "price spells" and demands cheap tires.

Current prices on United States Passenger Car Tires and Tubes are not subject to Federal Excise Tax, the tax having been included.

PIRATES HOPE TO MOW DOWN BRAVES IN PENNANT DRIVE

SHORT SHAP SERIES SLATED AT PITTSBURGH

By NICK FLATLEY.
Bill McKelvie escorted his Pirates into town today, and colliding with them didn't alter the native any holiday. The Corsairs have just completed a rout at the Polo Grounds, where they chopped the champion Giants into very small pieces. Naturally the invaders want to keep right on winning, as they can see a good place in the first division just over the horizon, with a scant chance of pulling a miracle and getting to the roof.

A year ago the Pittsburghers were the favored team when they had the pennant at hand. They have won it again, now they have visitors of a somewhat different kind to the place, when they are counted as outsiders.

Young Mike McKelvie is getting quite a reputation as a manager. He took over the most difficult of assignments, a disgruntled team in mid-season. He didn't get the club going at once, but his recent campaign would indicate that he has finally found the combination. The Pirates and the Braves have always staged interesting battles, regardless of standing. There's the kind of rivalry that reminds one of the classic series of the past. The Pirates are the victors in the series, but the Braves may brighten up at the World Series.

Filling Out With Bad Knees for Best of the Season
Pittsburgh, out with a worked knee, will hardly get back in the game this year. He has tried working it recently, but the crop refuses to bud up at all, and any effort at running would just about run it permanently. This leaves the regular season, and the manager may be forced out by some of the men collected or recalled from the farm.

BUT TAD TOTU MAY TRY SWIM IN FACE OF STORMS

The necessity of postponing his attempt to swim the Channel on Monday and Tuesday due to poor weather, places Capt. Webb in the same position that Captain Mather Webb was placed in when he first attempted to make the hazardous swim on Aug. 12, 1876.

After three days of impossible weather Webb decided to make his attempt regardless of the weather rather than in the probable return to London without some effort to show that he was at least worthy of the attention he had received. Un fortunately before starting, a thunderstorm took place, and the sea became decidedly lumpy.

However, Captain Webb started his swim in spite of the poor conditions and fought the elements for seven hours before being forced to give up. The roughness of the sea caused a general depression on his part.

Although Webb's first attempt was hopeless from the beginning he earned the admiration and respect of the English sporting world for his courage.

It is very likely that Webb is in the same frame of mind that Webb was in when he threw all caution to the wind and battled against the elements in his first attempt. It is very likely that the nervous tension which would be caused by subsequent postponement might injure the chance of an athlete of a high rating.

Webb's second attempt is expected to be made on Monday night. It is expected that the weather will be better than it was on the first attempt.

Love

First Authentic Story of French Bluebeard, Who Won 283 Women, Written By William Le Queux

LANDRU easily caught the police in his early love crimes, but his disguise was finally penetrated by Andre Babaley. She asked him if he were not Raymond Diard.

She saw that by the rudeness of her question he was both startled and annoyed. But it was only for a second. For he smiled as seductively as he always did, and repeated his question: "What makes you think I have loved anyone there?"

"No," she replied. "But you, you answer exactly to the description I have read in the story of a man named Raymond Diard, who is accused of murdering a woman and her son at Versailles."

"Raymond Diard," he repeated with a blank expression upon his face.

"Yes," she said boldly, for his attempt to evade her question convinced her to be more confident of the appalling fact that he was actually the man in such active search. "You have led to my mind the name of a man who has been called 'Bluebeard'—the crime, starting at him in wild-eyed horror. This story little 'Lulu' cried Landru again. 'What are you saying?'"

"The truth," she went on, now full of defiance and heat. "You are the man, Diard, who escaped arrest, as the paper says. I now see why you are so careful not to go to railway stations, and wear your spectacles, and change your clothes and hat whenever you go out."

ceived me, Monsieur Diard! But you will do so no longer. I—I—" "And pray what will you do?" he interrupted in a low, even voice.

"I shall tell them that Raymond Diard and Lorian Gullet are one and the same," cried the young girl in defiance. "I will not remain here another moment with an assassin!" she declared, darting from the room and upstairs to climb the stairs and reach the roof.

"Come back!" he commanded, but she sprang up the stairs, while he waited in the hall below, hoping to calm her. In any case he saw himself in considerable peril, for a word to the police, and he would, no doubt, be entrapped. He had acted with foolish indiscretion, and had inadvertently revealed to her several facts concerning himself which the police would, no doubt, welcome.

"I shall not let you leave this house until we have arrived at a complete understanding," and he shook her roughly. "What you are saying is all true, and your action, my dear Andre, are sheer madness. Is every man with a dark beard and deep-set eyes to be arrested as the scoundrel Diard? Is this the recompense I have for taking compassion upon you, and afterwards falling in love with you and asking you to become my wife?"

"You told the same story to the widow Cuchet," he was replying. "I know that you are Raymond Diard."

"And how do you know, pray?" asked the arch-accuser.

"Because last Sunday, when you drove into Houdan, I happened to have the curiosity to open that big brown English suitcase of yours, and in it I saw a quantity of papers. Among them was a letter evidently written by a boy—and it bore the signature 'Andre Cuchet.'"

"Bah! You are full of weird imaginings!" Landru cried, his crafty brain trying to arrive at some solution of the serious situation, and much surprised that the girl should have opened the suitcase which he believed had been securely locked. "Think of what you are saying, my dear Andre."

"I am your dear Andre, no longer!" cried the girl defiantly, her love having turned to loathing. "You are alleged by the police to be an assassin; and you must clear yourself before I see you again," was her reply.

"Do you intend to go to the police?" "I do. It is my duty."

"Then you love me no more—"

Life Career of the World's Greatest Love Criminal, as Shown by the Archives of the Paris Police sh!" he asked with pitiful appeal, then resigned.

"No," she had decided me, she declared.

Then he laughed grimly in her face.

"And so have you! So take that!"

And before she was aware of the fact that he had drawn his Browning pistol, he fired point-blank at her, and the bullet pierced her chest.

"The poor, disillusioned girl, horrified at her discovery, staggered and fell backwards dead, without uttering a word."

And Landru only laughed as she lay there, huddled and inert, and remarked:

"That is my punishment for writing into my affairs."

Then, turning away and leaving her where she had fallen upon the floor, which could easily be washed, he muttered to himself:

"Well, she gave rather too affectionate, no tonight is just the same as a week later. The little Vien might have brought upon me serious trouble if she had kept her own counsel and her mouth closed. It is indeed fortunate that she was so outspoken."

He returned to the dining-room, where he poured out a stiff glass of cognac—for he only drank to strengthen his nerves—washed it and afterwards tossed away the spent cartridge into the garden, where three years afterwards it was found dug into a flower-bed among some standard roses.

Again he swallowed a second glass of cognac and then, leaving the body of the poor girl where it had fallen, he extinguished the lamps, and looking up the house, got into his car and sped away toward Paris upon a journey which was to prove more adventurous than any he had anticipated.

Landru, driving as hard as he could, and wrapped in the eyes in his heavy motor coat, which hid his beard, and, wearing goggles, entered Paris by the Porte Maillot soon after 11 o'clock that night.

The policeman in uniform was unobservant, for owing to darkness, the lights were dim at the city gates, and no lights showed in the streets, while, on his approach, through Mouilly, he had shut off the headlights of his car.

Along the unlighted avenue and through the Champs Elysees he sped, and across the city to the Eiffel, illuminated aloft by his friends, old Calicut.

"All my dear Jules!" he cried cheerily as the old man opened the door of the apartment, rather reluctantly at that hour, he said.

"Yes, my dear friend!" replied the unobservant old fellow.

"Why, I thought you were safely out of Paris. It is surely most dangerous for you to remain here."

"I have been away at my villa in the country, and have only this moment returned," Landru replied.

"Then get away again—at once," urged the old man, without inviting him to be seated. "What fix is it all searching everywhere for you. He was here only yesterday, questioning me again, for he evidently suspects that we are eaten in communication. My letters are all opened, I find. Therefore, don't delay a single instant, get away!"

"You do not anticipate that ob-servance in being kept upon this place?" asked Landru eagerly.

"How can I tell? If the charge made against you is correct, then it is possible. Is it true?"

Landru hesitated for a second.

"All you are not alone in that, my dear friend," laughed old Jules.

"When a woman unduly worries a man he is sometimes compelled to be firm. I have never been against you to correct, then it is possible. Is it true?"

Landru hesitated for a second.

Let its big lasting suds gently soak out all the dirt

RINSOL suds make the water actually soapy all through. They work down into every fold and fibre, loosening the dirt, without weakening a single thread.

Just a light rubbing with dry Rinsol on cuff edges, neck bands and the like is all the rubbing you will need to do—the dirt is so loosened.

Be sure to use enough Rinsol to get the big lasting suds, that give the water a soapy feel all through.

Rinsol is made by the largest soap makers in the world. It is sold everywhere. Get Rinsol today—at grocery and department stores. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

For the family wash Rinsol is as wonderful as Lux is for fine things
